Espresso presents "Used and Reused Wood: Furniture by Carlos Motta", an exhibition featuring limited edition pieces and a selection of the designer's classic works from the past years.

"The idea is to reuse, to give new life to a material", says Motta. "The exhibition demonstrates that environmental conservation and social responsibility are the requirements of great design today."

The collection reveals a startling simplicity and a respect for wood salvaged from demolition sites. On the occasion, the designer's new "Havaianas" chair will be unveiled for the first time in the United States.

Motta was chosen to design the piece by the celebrated Brazilian brand of flip-flops.
