HOT FROM BRAZIL

Fans of Modernist Sergio Rodrigues – considered the ‘father of Brazilian furniture’ – should check out a new shop-in-shop dedicated to his work at New York design gallery Espasso. Occupying an entire floor, it’s the first permanent retail space for the 84-year-old designer and will stock classics such as his 1961 ‘Mole’ armchair (above), as well as exclusive re-editions in his signature mix of exotic woods and leather. Drawings and photographs on the walls will help tell the stories behind his designs (espasso.com).
