Starting next week, furniture by Oscar Niemeyer and Jorge Zalszupin, two of Brazil's most-celebrated architects, will be available in the United States, through Espasso, a design gallery in TriBeCa. The re-editions include items that Mr. Niemeyer, who died in 2012 at the age of 104, designed in the 1970s with his daughter Anna Maria Niemeyer, including the Rio rocking chaise ($38,400), and Alta armchair and ottoman ($28,450 for both). Espasso will also offer 20 pieces designed in the 1960s by the now-91-year-old Mr. Zalszupin, including his Circa bench ($17,800) and delicately curving Brasiliana armchair ($10,250). The pieces will be displayed at Espasso from May 14 to June 3, and will be for sale, then and after, along with a new monograph, "Jorge Zalszupin: Design Moderno" ($80), by Maria Cecilia Loschiavo dos Santos. Espasso is at 38 North Moore Street (Hudson Street). Information: 212-219-0017 or espasso.com.
