

WORLD DESIGN

VIVA BRAZIL

By Andrea Mills

The Rio 2016 Olympics made us realize it's time to turn the spotlight on the country's incredible architecture and design scene. Oscar Niemeyer tends to be synonymous with the Brazilian modern design movement, but there is a large roster of young designers and architects, such as the Campana Brothers, Zanini de Zanine, Carol Gay, Aristeu Pires and Domingos Tótora, to name just a few, who are making a big impact on international design.

BRASS SECTION Well known at international art and design fairs, Carol Gay focuses on architectural projects and product design. Cobre chandelier, carolgay.com.br

SHINE ON Jader Almeida's work is typically modern and minimal, as seen in his Albert lamp for Soltos. Manifesto manifestofurniture.com

TOP SHELF The Campana Brothers have designed for brands such as Alessi, Lacoste and Edra. Scrigno cabinet for Edra, luminare.com

FINE FRAME Aristeu Pires is a pioneer of bringing Brazilian design to North America. Angela armchair, Sassego, sassegodesign.com

ROLL OUT Maison&Objet 2015 Designer of the Year Zanini de Zanine carries on his father's legacy of craftsmanship. Serfa armchair studiozanini.com.br

SHOW PIECE Evergreen Brasil, an exhibition hosted by Luminare and Casa Vogue at Art Basel Miami Beach, highlighted the Shanghai lamp by Ana Neute. luminare.com

ROCK SOLID Domingos Tótora's signature curvilinear forms are shown in his Mesa Agua table. Sassego, sassegodesign.com